AWI's WA SHEEP NETWORK

MAGGOT MAIL April 2016

The Regional Roundup

We ask farmers state wide the following questions about their sheep system:

- Worm & Fly Activity
- Feeding Regime
- Rainfall & Impact
- Seasonal Comments

There is quite a spread in rainfall and its impact - pastures looking bare in Northampton and lush in other parts of the state. Click here to read the report.

A new video series produced in-house by AWI champions the dedication, passion and professionalism of Australian woolgrowers. Many months in the making, The Source series profiles woolgrowing families from all states of Australia. The series is currently available online as well as being shown by dozens of retailers and brands in key markets to highlight the nation's great natural fibre.

WA livestock disease outlook for producers

WA Livestock Disease Outlook (WALDO) is a monthly newsletter keeping producers and all in the trade aware of issues facing livestock in the coming month. Some of the diseases to be on the look out for in autumn are acidosis from feeding high levels of cereals and summer pneumonia.

Checkout the WALDO March link to find out more about these and other issues being reported.

paraboss

Paraboss is the home of flyboss, liceboss and wormboss. There you will find information to assist in the management of major parasite risks in sheep. To subscribe to monthly email updates from Paraboss, click here.
